Now here it is the summer of 2017. I took a grate deal of time and effort back when the SEC started there mission on the Northern Pass project. It's said to say but at the end of all the public hearings I had to step away. As a disabled war veteran I was very upset the the powers and proses to protect the environment and it's citizens could be bough and sold. I am still under the impression that the SEC was created to give the impression that us country people have a voice. There is something to be said that the country land serves a purp more than just crippling under the city's power. This is not the Hunger Games. New Hampshire does not need the extra power or want to take the consequences of it.
